How do I get there?

The new Calvary Adelaide Hospital is located a short walk from a number of public transport options.

The best way to determine the fastest and most efficient way for you, is to use the 'Plan my Journey' option at adelaidemetro.com.au

Tram

The Victoria Square stop is the closest stop to the hospital. From here simply cross the square and walk down Angas street to the hospital. Trams operate at a 5-10 minute frequency Monday to Friday and 10-15 minute frequency on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Calvary Adelaide Hospital is located within the Free City tram zone that runs between South Terrace tram stop and the Entertainment Centre. Travel within this zone is free for everyone.

Bus

In addition to your normal bus route into the city, there are free of charge city buses, the 99A and 99C loops both go along roads adjacent to the Calvary Adelaide Hospital.

Train

From The Adelaide Railway Station located on North Terrace, rail passengers can either transfer to the free tram service, the tram stop is located directly in front of the Railway Station and take the tram to Victoria Square. Alternatively if you are needing to get your steps in for the day it is a 20 minute walk along King William Street and left into Angas Street from Victoria Square!

Bicycle

Cycling to the hospital is encouraged, there are eight bays on the Ground Floor near the Emergency Department entrance to park bicycles.

Car

If you are driving to the hospital a number of parking stations are available in close proximity to the hospital, please see map on the following page.

Fast Fact

We have a 20 bed Intensive Care Unit, 324 In-patient beds and 66 Day patient beds.
